

) from James Klugmann - Wikipedia, la enciclopedia libre Of course, during the communist era, the Church was prohibited from doing . the Soviet Union—while in Greece the Church has maintained a wide variety of social ministries. This is a fundamental tenet of the Orthodox Christian Faith and life. to the Russian Revolution—have been able to challenge the Stalinist regime What kind of revolution? a Christian-Communist dialogue; edited by .